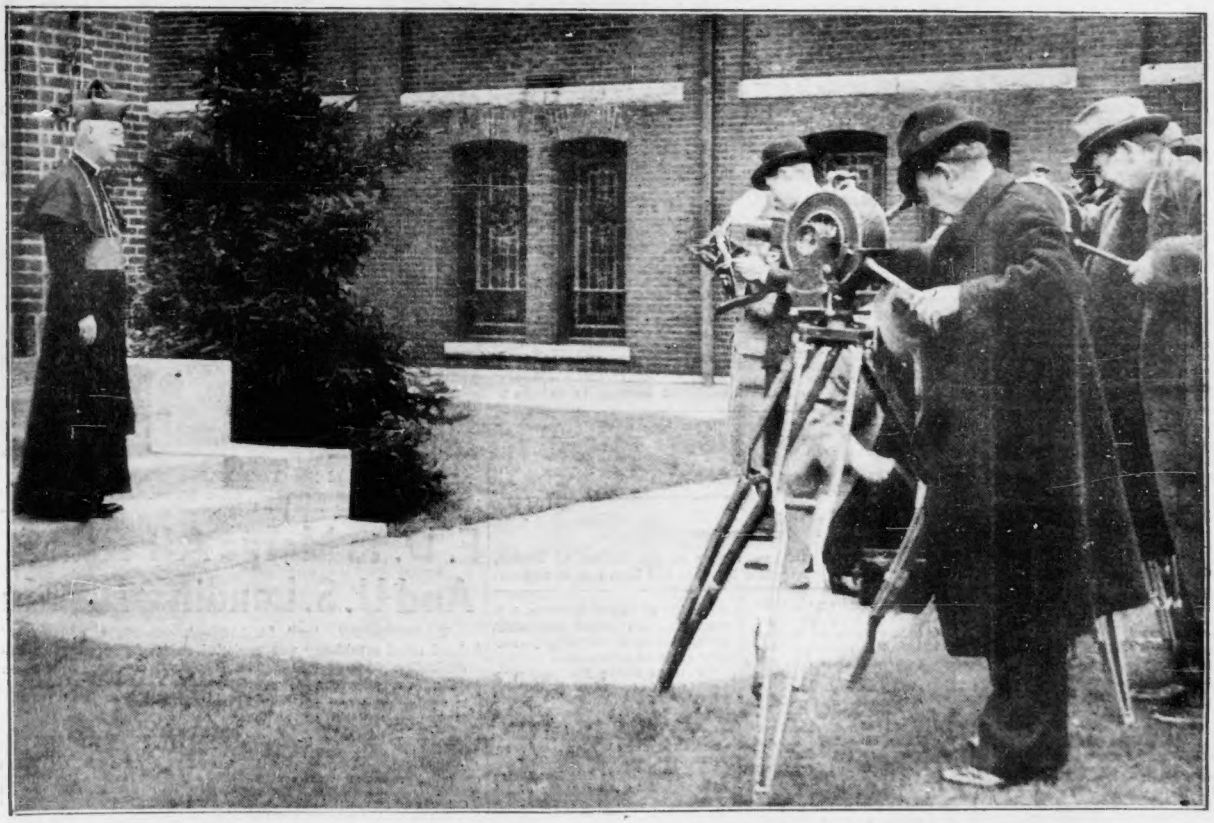
SPELLMAN MADE N.Y. ARCHBISHOP

STORY ON PAGE 2



Archbishop Faces Cameras—Life today was an unending procession of sound-movie and press photographers for New York's new archbishop, Francis Joseph Spellman, as they thronged his Newton Centre home. His elevation was hailed with joy by all creeds and races in Boston.

SPELLMAN NAMED N. Y. ARCHBISHOP

VATICAN CITY, April 24 (AP)—The Rev. Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary Bishop of Boston and trusted emissary of the late Pope Pius XI, today was named Archbishop of New York.

He was selected to succeed the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes by Pope Pius XII who, as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, consecrated him as Bishop in St. Peter's in 1932.

It was considered almost certain that th enew archbishop, who will be 50 years old May 4, would be created a cardinal but whether this might be done at a consistory which the Pontiff is expected to call in June or July, or at some later consistory, was a matter of speculation among prelates.

11 VACANCIES AS CARDINAL

His chances for elevation to the purple soon were believed by some prelates to be increased by the fact that the membership of the College of Cardinals now is unusually low.

The full strength of the college is 70. The membership was reduced to 59 by yesterday's death of Domenico Cardinal Mariani at the age of 76.

He enjoyed the distinction of being his high school's most brilliant Latin scholar, the baseball team's star shortstop and his community's champion horseshoe pitcher.

IN LICENSED FLIER

While serving as an assistant at the Vatican secretariat he learned to fly under Italian tutelage and obtained a pilot's license.

Bishop Spellman was the first American to be named an assistant to a Vatican secretary of state.

He served in Rome 13 years, at one time being charged with translating discourses of the Pope into English.

In 1931, when friction developed between the church and the Italian state he carried a message of the Pope dealing with the matter out of Italy to Paris where he then made it public.

He was named to the Boston post August 1, 1932, with the titular bishopric of Sila in Numidia.

He was consecrated bishop in St. Peter's that year and was the first American consecrated bishop in the basilica.

New Archbishop's First Call Is Upon Cardinal O'Connell

Within a few hours after receiving word today of his elevation as head of the New York archdiocese, the Rt. Rev. Francis J. Spellman of Newton called on Cardinal O'Connell at the latter's Lake street residence.

At Newton the new archbishop had said the appointment came as "a complete surprise" to him and he would be unable to discuss his plans until later in the day.

On the grounds of the cardinal's house, however, Cardinal O'Connell did all the talking and said for himself and Archbishop Spellman that there would be no statement until one had been issued officially by the apostolic delegate at Washington.

Cardinal O'Connell was out walking on the tennis courts in the rear of St. John's Seminary, with his black French poodle, Morro, accompanying him, when Archbishop Spellman arrived with his chauffeur.

CARDINAL CALLS REPORTERS

The Archbishop immediately joined the Cardinal on the grounds and the two prelates walked slowly up and down the courts for some time, the Cardinal using a cane.

Finally Cardinal O'Connell called over the news reporters, and while Archbishop Spellman remained in the background, the Cardinal said:

"At this particular time we are not going to answer any questions and there will be no statement regarding the bishop.

"Any information or statement must come from the apostolic delegate at Washington first.

"Perhaps a little later a statement will be made here, and I do not believe at this time that Bishop Spellman wants to answer any

Bishop Spellman 50 Soon, Then May Be Cardinal

Bishop Spellman, the new Archbishop of New York, cannot be made a cardinal immediately, it was explained today, because of age requirements, and because the Consistory is not in session.

It is an inflexible rule that all cardinals must be 50 or more before elevation to the Sacred College. The new archbishop will be 50 on May 4. The Consistory meets in June or July, and his elevation at that time is being freely predicted by high church dignitaries.

Henderson Named As SEC Member

WASHINGTON, April 24 (INS)—Leon Henderson, executive secretary of the temporary national economic committee which has been conducting the monopoly investigation, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The new appointee will succeed William O. Douglas, SEC chairman, who resigned to become an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

BISHOP SPELLMAN'S LIFE

By JACK CONWAY

(Copyright, 1939, by Boston Evening American)

The elevation of Bishop Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Boston, to the high post of Archbishop of New York is another step in a life that has been rich in achievement.

It is expected Bishop Spellman will later be named a Cardinal in view of his eminence and brilliance as a churchman, and because of the importance of the new position to which he has been appointed by Pope Pius XII.

Bishop Spellman is rightly considered the closest friend of the present Pope in the United States. It was Bishop Spellman who had charge of the American tour of the present Pope when the latter visited this country as secretary of state to the late Pope Pius XI.

When in Rome, Bishop Spellman, then a monsignor, served in the office of the secretary of state, thus being placed in close contact daily with noted churchmen, including the then Cardinal Pacelli.

Yet years of association with those of high standing in all walks of life never affected Bishop Spellman's essential simplicity and lack of affectation.

THOUGHTFULNESS NOTED

If it may be permitted to one who has frequently had the honor of being present in his home as a guest to give a pen picture that delineates many of the influences at work in the life of Bishop Spellman, it is clear that his genial hospitality, thoughtfulness and winning personality are ever outstanding.

BOSTON has been signally honored by Pope Pius XII in his choice of Bishop Francis J. Spellman to become archbishop of New York, in direct line for the robes of a cardinal.

Here's a Boston boy—born in Whitman—who is symbolical of all other Boston boys who have chosen to devote their lives to the service of the Almighty. And here is an intimate, closely drawn portrait of him, written by one who knows him better than any other, a close personal friend, who for years has enjoyed his confidence and respect.

Yet, while Bishop Spellman exercises every care to see that his guests lack nothing that would make for their enjoyment, I have always noticed his own frugality of life. He eats sparingly, is utterly abstemious, and abstains from every dessert.

Upon questioning His Excellency with regard to the severity of his own life, he informed me that from his earliest years in the priesthood he had made it a rule of life and found it invaluable in his work to eat sparingly, exercise regularly and get at least six hours of sleep every night.

"This rule of life," said His Excellency, "for many years has given me alertness of mind and a strength of body that have enabled me to carry on amid the various duties that have fallen

F. D. to Merge All Relief And U. S. Lending Boards

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—A complete overhaul of federal relief machinery was projected today in government reorganization plans drafted by President Roosevelt for submission to Congress tomorrow.

It was reported four reorganization proposals would go to the Capitol.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader, was authority for the statement that revision of relief agencies was contemplated.

Other congressional leaders said Mr. Roosevelt had advised them he would send to Congress tomorrow these reorganization proposals:

1—A plan to consolidate under a new "public works agency" the WPA, the PWA, the United States Housing Authority, the Treasury's Public Buildings Division and the Bureau of Public Roads. (A similar proposal is contained in a relief measure sponsored by Senator Byrnes (D.) of South

Find Woman, 50, Dead on N. H. Tracks

The mangled body of a well-dressed woman of 50 was discovered on the New Haven railroad tracks near Freeport street, Dorchester, today.

Police said the woman apparently had been struck by a train, but they were unable to tell immediately how long she had been dead.

Raymond Madden, flagman on the 4.25 a. m. train from South Station to Cape Cod, noticed the body and notified the police of the Fields Corner station.

Officers went to the scene and upon determining the woman was evidently an accident victim, called the medical examiner. Police sent the following description of the woman to Greater Boston stations by teletype:

Five feet, six inches in height; medium complexion; brown hair; blue coat, blue sweater, blue dress with red flower figures; brown stockings and black shoes.

Police of Dorchester and nearby sections said they had received no reports of a missing woman of the victim's description.

Stricken Bridegroom Recovering

MRS. MARY ROSS

Plans for his interrupted honeymoon indefinitely postponed, James Ross, Washington street, Somerville, was out of danger today and making a swift recovery in Cambridge City Hospital.

He underwent an operation for appendicitis a half-hour after he collapsed at his own wedding reception at the home of his bride in Charles street, Cambridge.

Ross was stricken Saturday afternoon, a few hours after his marriage to Miss Mary Adario.

Toppling while he was upstairs changing his wedding clothes, he made an outcry for his bride, and she and his brother William got him into an automobile and took him to the hospital.

While getting him out of the car at the emergency gate she struck her head against the door of the machine and suffered a cut on the bridge of the nose.

They were married Saturday morning at the Church of St. Francis Assisi in Cambridge.

Ross is a truckman, the son of Mrs. Mary A. Ross.

Frankfurter Fails to Break Court Routine

WASHINGTON, April 24 (INS)—Justice Felix Frankfurter, fresh from his classroom at Harvard, failed today in an effort to interrupt routine in the Supreme court.

After Justice Frankfurter delivered the only formal opinion Chief Justice Hughes immediately took up court routine.

"Pardon me—I beg your pardon," said Justice Frankfurter, seeking to claim attention of the Chief Justice, who, apparently not hearing his colleague, ignored his request.

Court attaches assumed that Justice Frankfurter sought to add to his formal opinion that two justices concurred in the result while another took no part, a fact he had forgotten to mention.

Fires Pursue District Chief

District Fire Chief Edward N. Montgomery hopes this thing doesn't become a habit. Where he signed up to follow fires, the fires now are following him.

Enjoying a day off today at his home, 26 Annavoy street, East Boston, the chief was called into action when an electric cleaning machine his wife was using developed a short-circuit.

Montgomery went into action, while his wife called the rest of the boys. They helped their chief extinguish the blaze, but not before it had caused $1200 damage, mainly to the sun parlor.

Several weeks ago, while visiting the East Boston home of his brother, Patrolman Cyril Montgomery, fire started there. Chief Montgomery triumphed over the blaze single-handed.

Honeymoons Wait As Film Hubbies Toil

HOLLYWOOD, April 24 (AP)—Honeymoons will have to wait for two couples of Hollywood newlyweds.

Film studios demanded the appearance of the bridegrooms, Tyrone Power and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., before the cameras today.

Power was married to Annabella, Parisian actress, in a ceremony devoid of fanfare or formality. Superior Judge William J. Palmer united the pair in a quiet ceremony at the bride's Bel-Air home.

Young Fairbanks was married Saturday afternoon to Mrs. Mary Lee Epling Hartford, comely divorcee of Virginia, New York City and Florida. Only about 20 persons attended the ceremony at the small Methodist Episcopal Church in suburban Westwood.

'JAIL FOR LOVE' GIRL SEALS LIPS AT PRISON

LA GRANGE, Ky., April 24 (INS)—Although identified as Miss Ruth Strickland, 23, of Harvey, Ill., Paducah's "jail for love" girl maintained a tight-lipped silence as she entered La Grange

Asked who was to be notified in case of death or illness, she replied:

"Nobody."

Miss Strickland, who had given her name as Barbara Williams, was identified through newspaper photographs by her sister, Mrs. Floyd Jones of Harvey, with whom she had lived. Mrs. Jones denied, however, that her sister had been disappointed in love.

The young woman was arrested last week when she failed in an attempt to hold up two women in a Paducah theater lobby. She was sentenced to ten years in prison. Although shocked at the severe sentence, she refused to reveal her true identity, saying she preferred not to disturb the man whose love she had tried in vain to win from another woman.

KILLER JAILED AS DAD WATCHES

In the presence of his grief-stricken father, 23-year-old John R. Moloney, former Medfield State Hospital attendant, was sentenced to State Prison today for a seven to ten-year term.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Frank J. Donahue in Dedham court, where young Moloney was recently found guilty of manslaughter in the death of John O'Neill, 74, a Medfield hospital inmate.

Moloney's father, Chief of Police Michael J. Moloney of Milford, sat in the rear of the courtroom as the sen tence was heard his penalty.

Young Moloney appeared near collapse and was supported on the arm of a deputy sheriff.

The father, sitting silent and white of face, made no immediate effort to go to his son's side or speak to him after the sentence was imposed.

During young Moloney's trial before a jury, it was testified he kicked O'Neill in the stomach, inflicting fatal injuries.

BRITAIN NOT TO EASE UP ON HITLER

Nazis Woo Baltics; Hitler Pens Reply

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 24—Open adhesion of Yugoslavia to the Italo-German anti-comintern pact became a possibility today as Germany entered a momentous week of diplomatic negotiations, and indications rose that attempts may be made to bring Baltic states into the axis fold.

Chancellor Hitler decided to remain in Berlin to complete the speech in reply to President Roosevelt before the Reichstag Friday. While linking of Yugoslavia to the anti-Comintern pact would be one direct slap at the democracies, the Fuehrer's address is expected to add to the blow with a score or more of negative answers to his questionnaire on "Do You Fear Germany?"

And if the French-British-Russian alliance goes into effect, it was believed Germany might use it to bring the Baltic states into a linuep against Poland.

A first-class sensation was created in Germany by return of British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson.

"He is like a spanked boy coming back with an apple to give the teacher as a peace offer," was one comment.

Nazi quarters were frankly jubilant, but diplomatic circles were suspicious.

LONDON, April 24 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that there was "no special significance" in the return of British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson to Berlin.

Chamberlain explained Sir Neville had been called home from Berlin originally to report on German annexation of Bohemia and Moravia and that after he'd had a short period of leave he had been instructed to return.

Chamberlain added that this action did not mean that Britain was recognizing the Nazi annexation of Czechoslovak territory or Italy's conquest of Albania.

SAYS STAND UNCHANGED

The Prime Minister refused to discuss Anglo-Russian negotiations in Moscow respite persistent Labor appeals for a statement "in order to influence Hitler's Friday speech."

"I do not think it desirable to make premature statements on negotiations which still are in progress."

A foreign office spokesman earlier had said the sudden return of Sir Nevile to Berlin "definitely does not indicate any change in Britain's new firm stand against aggression."

He had acknowledged, however, that if Chamberlain had any message for Hitler before the Fuehrer's speech Friday to the Reichstag in answer to President Roosevelt's non-aggression appeal, the ambassador would be the natural person to convey it.

WEIGH HUGE BUDGET

The question of Sir Nevile's return to Berlin sooner than had been anticipated came amid the launching of Anglo-Rumanian talks to cement the close relationship between London and Bucharest and consideration of what probably will be Britain's largest peacetime budget.

Negotiations with Rumania began both here, where Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu talked to Chamberlain and British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and in Bucharest, where British financial and industrial experts arrived to map out a program for expanded British-Rumanian trade.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was expected to introduce in Commons tomorrow budget estimates of about £1,278,000,000 (approximately $5,980,000,000), swelled to unprecedented peacetime size by Britain's vast rearmament program.

Chamberlain said Sir Nevile was returning to Berlin "in the normal course of duty."

Chamberlain assured Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, that he would make a statement on the British-French attempts to align European powers as soon as possible.

Nazis to Delay Envoy's Return

BERLIN, April 24 (INS)—Discussions concerning the probable return to London of German Ambassador Herbert Von Dirksen proceeded today concident with arrival here of Sir Nevile Henderson, the British envoy.

Contrary to reports abroad that Von Dirksen was returning immediately to London, an official news agency bulletin declared:

"The date of Herr Von Dirksen's return to London has not yet been fixed."

Dies Sees War, Propaganda Worst U. S.

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 24 (AP)—Rep. Martin Dies (D), of Texas, predicted today war is approaching in Europe and warned the United States must say out of Europe and Europe out of the United States.

The address, delivered before the annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, was broadcast nationally.

If war should start there is a danger of the United States becoming involved, Dies declared, because of the powerful influence wielded in this nation by European propaganda. He said Europe "has a great stake in involving us in her affairs."

The Texan, chairman of the House special committee on un-American activities, asserted, however, that enemies within the United States offer a more serious threat to democracy than the "swastika of a foreign Hitler or the hammer and sickle of a foreign Stalin."

He warned that a nation can be conquered more easily by alien ideas than alien troops and asserted the "alien idea that the government should support all the people is invading the nation today."

FRANCE BANS NAZI GROUPS

PARIS, April 24 (AP)—The French government, in one of two measures reported today for assuring French unity, outlawed three organizations in Alsace-Lorraine for attempting to undermine French nationalism.

Hermann Bickler, Prussian-born autonomy leader, was the head of one of the organizations.

The other measure reported to have been decreed by the cabinet established heavy penalties for efforts "to provoke hate and discord among Frenchmen because of race or religion."

It was said that the effort to smash autonomy organizations in an area along the vital Maginot line was the forerunner of widespread measures to assure French unity during international tension.

In addition to Bickler's youth organization, those outlawed were the Erwin Von Steinbach Club and the Alsatian People's Intellectual and Cultural Union.

The decision was made after an urgent report by Vice Premier Chautemps, who is charged with supervising the border provinces which France won back from Germany at the end of the World War.

Bickler, so-called "Fuehrer of Alsace-Lorraine," has been hailed by his followers as the man who might some day lead the provinces back to Germany.

British Mission Visits Rumania

BUCHAREST, April 24 (AP)—A body of British financial and industrial experts, led by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, arrived in Bucharest today to map out a program for extension of trade between Great Britain and Rumania.

Government sources said another object of the mission was to establish arms and munitions factories to make Rumania independent of the Skoda works of dismembered Czecho-Slovakia, now in German hands.

There were reports that Germany was watching the Anglo-Rumanian negotiations closely and planned counter-moves.

BERLIN, April 24 (AP)—A group of Rumanian economic experts arrived here today for trade talks with German officials.

Negotiations will center chiefly around technicalities of putting into effect the German-Rumanian trade treaty which was signed March 23 in Bucharest.

Propaganda Peril Is Cited by Senator

If America joins the so-called democratic alliance against the totalitarian states, it will prove itself a pitifully easy victim of English and French propaganda, declared U. S. Senator Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina, who was here to broadcast over a nation-wide radio hook-up today.

England, he said, always has been imperialistic, France is Communistic now.

Railing at the inclusion of Russia among the democracies, the Senator declared if that country ever got into war on any side there would be a counter-revolution, with Stalin and his underlings hurled out of power and "liquidated."

Senator Reynolds, a ranking member of the committee on foreign relations, was greeted at the South Station by a group of admirers, many of them bearing "Reynolds for President" banners. Ambassador Joe Kennedy was suggested for vice-president.

The senator dismissed the idea of being a candidate for President for the time being, saying he had other things to think about.

CREATING HATRED

"There is a certain element in the United States today who hate both Mussolini and Hitler," Reynolds said. "Propaganda machines of Great Britain and France are also making use of our press with a view to creating hatred of these men.

"If these groups are successful they are likely to get us into foreign entanglements and we must guard against it.

"The worst diplomatic move made in history was when Great Britain sought an alliance with Soviet Russia against the Rome-Berlin axis. The American people are not going to let their sons put on uniforms and fight beside Communistic Russia even for the so-called saving of democracy.

"This country is in the worst fix in our history. We are talking of spending money to save the people over there. With millions idle in this country and other millions on the WPA we ought to be talking of saving the people over here.

SEES NO WAR YET

Senator Reynolds said he doubted there would be a war in Europe this year.

"Hitler is a bank robber," he said. "He had no gold so he robbed Prague of $85,000,000. Germany in her present situation could last only a year in war. Hitler needs money, wheat and oil. That is why he is driving to the east.

"He has his eye on Holland. He can store wheat but he needs the fats that country produces. Holland will flood the country if invaded, but ultimately I believe Hitler will take it."

GIRL SLEEPWALKER PUZZLES DOCTORS

Closer watch will be kept in the future upon 12-year-old Norma Kellar of Strathmore road, Brighton, who walked four miles in her sleep and was found slumbering peacefully in a strange doorway in Newton.

Doctors term the case one of the strangest in the history of somnambulism.

The girl, a pupil at Girls' Latin school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Kellar.

Her mother had left her asleep in bed at 7:30, and had gone out for the evening. Returning at midnight, she found her little daughter missing.

It was not until after two o'clock seven hours after Norma had gone to bed in her home—when the terrified mother received word by telephone that Norma had been found asleep on the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown of Homer st., Newton Center.

Mrs. Brown, after learning the girl's identity and telephoning her parents, called Newton police.

Norma was taken to her home in a cruising car.

Norma, her mother said, had been spending the afternoon with a girl chum, Jean Leach, who lives in Homer st. directly opposite the Brown home. The Leach family had driven Norma to her own home early in the evening and she had gone immediately to bed.

Norma herself has no memory of leaving her home, and cannot account for her strange journey to Newton Center.

Governor Calls New Fuel Strike Parley

Governor Saltonstall today opened another attempt to break the 13-day deadlock between 2800 coal and oil truck drivers and 32 companies affiliated with the Retail Fuel Institute.

Picketing was resumed after union delegates, by a vote of 311 to 172 rejected a compromise agreement submitted by the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

The union demands a change in the date when an hours and wages agreement terminates. At present the date is April 1, and the union seeks to have the date set at Dec. 31.

As Governor Saltonstall recalled representatives of both sides for further negotiations, efforts may be made to have the deadlock broken and permit the differences to be subjected to arbitration.

Meanwhile, emergency deliveries of coal and oil continued. Gasoline deliveries have returned to normal. Several coal barges remained unloaded because of a "sympathy" strike of wharf trimmers.

The fuel industry also was affected by the CIO seamen's strike against four major oil firms operating 136 tankers along the Atlantic. Six tankers remained tied up.

FAITH in press-agentry is Faith Bacon's excuse for going stepping on New York's Fifth Avenue in strip-tease costume and a fawn. Police stopped her . . . and here they are tying up the fawn. She was arrested on disorderly conduct charge, gave a diamond as bail. All this helps to announce New York's World's Fair isn't going to ban nudity.

FIND GIRL IN TIME TO SAVE LIFE

Whatever may have been the reason, Mildred Caravas, 20, tried to kill herself today at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Angelina Balbas, in Warren street, Roxbury, according to police.

She wrote two notes, went to the kitchen where she turned on six jets in the gas stove, then reclined on the floor to await death, they reported.

Neighbors smelled gas and notified police and firemen. Policeman John McFarlane and David Ahern broke in and found her. They turned off the gas, opened all windows and took her outside, where they applied emergency first aid measures. When the firemen arrived an inhalator was brought into play. Soon the girl revived to consciousness.

Dr. Joseph Laserson pronounced her out of danger. She was put to bed at home.

F. D. to Demand Merging Relief

MERGER OF LOAN BOARDS

2—A plan to consolidate government lending agencies.

3—A proposal to set up a new "welfare agency" or "security agency" to take over activities of the Social Security Board, National Youth Administration, Bureau of Education and Public Health Service.

4—A plan calling for elimination of duplicating functions of existing government departments.

The latter proposal it was said, may call for unification of scattered government law enforcement agencies.

Barkley's discussion of relief changes bracketed the NYA in that category, while others said they thought it would be grouped with the social welfare agencies.

SEE 25 MILLION SAVING

Byrnes told reporters he thought the President's proposal to consolidate relief agencies would result in saving $25,000,000 or more in administrative expenses each year.

Well informed Senate leaders said they understood details of some of the plans had not yet been worked out, but the President would finish these tonight.

Mr. Roosevelt will act under provisions of the government reorganization bill, enacted recently, which permits him to reorganize most government agencies by executive order. The orders become effective after 60 days unless Congress disapproves.

Senators said it was not yet certain which lending agencies would be included, but that the Federal Housing Administration and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation probably would be.

Fair Exhibit Hit By $100,000 Fire

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—A $100,000 fire blazed through the million-dollar glass industry exhibit of the New York World's Fair one week before the Fair's formal opening.

Despite extensive damage to the expensive and delicate interior, Edward T. M. Hanrahan, assistant manager for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, said the exhibit would remain open. It has been operating for three weeks.

3 Children's Deaths Mar Sunday Outings

While hundreds of thousands thronged beaches or enjoyed sports events and auto trips three children's deaths marred the first warm Sunday of spring, a checkup of accidents revealed today.

Nine-year-old Lauretta Renaldi of Albion place, Charlestown, was crushed to death and 10 other members of a family outing party were hurt when a light truck and sedan crashed in Beverly.

Parents and children were thrown together on to the street as the truck overturned. Mrs. Henry Renaldi, mother of the child who was killed, and Mrs. Concetta Constantino, 29, of Park street, Beverly, were the most seriously injured of the group.

In Waltham, Lucy A. Delaney, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Delaney of Williams street, was killed within sight of her home by an automobile backing out of a driveway. Police said the driver of the car was Paul Mosca, a next door neighbor.

Working in relays, large crews of men continued to drag Stillwater pond in Smithfield, R. I., for the body of Wilfred Emin, 13, who was drowned when a canoe overturned. Two companions were rescued.

Indicative of the turnout of people to enjoy the warmth of Sunday's sun was the crowd of 300,000 at Revere beach, where concessions reported the biggest day's business of the year.

New Disease Kills 20 Horses

LOWELL, April 24 (AP)—A mysterious disease, a Lowell stableman reported today, caused the death of 20 horses, and serious illness of a score more.

Harry M. Parker, treasurer of the C. H. Hanson company, dealers in western horses, said 20 of his animals fell ill, and died within a few hours since last Tuesday.

Veterinarians have been unable to diagnose the disease, he said, but added they assured him it was not encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness, which has attacked horses in other parts of New England.

Parker said the dead and sick horses were part of several carloads of animals which arrived several weeks ago from the West.

Jungle Is Combed For Lost Naturalist

KEY LARGO, Fla., April 24 (AP)—Hurrying against time, searchers backed into the semi-tropical jungle of Key Largo today for a trace of Dr. John E. Folk, amateur naturalist, lost in the insect-infested area since Friday.

Hope that the 70-year-old retired physician of Bridgeport, W. Va., might be found alive waned as hours passed. Lieut. John L. Evans, leader of 200 CCC enrollees engaged in the search, said the 91-pound man may not have survived the first night in the wilderness.

4 MEN SAW OUT OF JAIL IN MAINE

SKOWHEGAN, Me., April 24 (AP)—Sheriff Martin J. Gallant reported four prisoners at the county jail here escaped early today by forcing the door of a cell enclosure and then sawing the bars of a second story window.

Gallant said Edward Betts, 17, of Skowhegan; Harold Sylvester, 27, of Norridgewock; Norman Castes, 17, Pittsfield and Herschel Towle, alias Frank Edwards, 47, a resident of Indiana, fled.

The quartet occupied a cell section in which six prisoners were awaiting trial at the May term of Superior Court.

Gallant said no automobiles were reported missing from the vicinity of the jail and expressed the opinion the four escaped on foot.

Me. Pair Face Bandit Charge

Lowell police and Maine authorities planned to seek warrants today for two Maine boys who were caught by Princeton, N. J., state troopers after an alleged "whirlwind" crime tour.

In their high-powered car, which police say the boys admitted stealing in Boston, was a small arsenal, license plates and devices for making quick getaways.

The pair gave their names as George Hall, 18, of Rearsport, Me., and Alfred Smith, 20, Brooks, Me.

HEARING SET ON BILL TO BAR TAX BOOSTING

The legislative rules committee announced today that it would hold a hearing Thursday on a bill sponsored by former State Representative Alexander F. Sullivan, Boston, designed to prohibit cities and towns from increasing their tax rates or raising their valuation scale.

Sullivan, who was an unsuccessful candidate last fall for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, said he would propose abolition of the tax appeals board, charging it was "nothing more than a rich man's haven."

TIP TO SPINSTERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24 (AP)—Eastern spinsters who were advised to follow Horace Greeley's famous advice—go west—to get their man, shouldn't be in too great a hurry.

At least one expert thinks so.

"Getting married," said Dr. S. L. Katzoff, San Francisco marriage specialist, "isn't a question of east or west.

"Any woman, anywhere, can get married, if she knows the art of attraction."

Dr. Paul Popence, general director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, interviewed in Boston, offered the 'go west' advice to unmarried Eastern women. He said there were more marriageable men in the west.

But Dr. Katzoff, medical director and psychiatrist of the San Francisco Instituteof Human Relations, who fixes up marital problems the courts have ben unable to solve, had this to say:

"It often comes down to this—many women are too modern to attract men. This type of woman has unconsciously adopted an attitude of excessive self-reliance.

"She'll climb out of automobiles without waiting for the man to open the door for her. She'll hold her own coat while she puts it on.

"All this is bad—very bad.

"It may even keep her from getting married.

"The reason is that this attitude reduces the gallantry of the man, makes him feel useless.

"If the woman will seem humble and helpless, she will awaken man's dormant feeling of chivalry and protective feelings. He will do things for her, and she can smile and approve. And then, she's got him.

"The woman who can arouse a man's gallantry will be sought and desired anywhere."

Prelate Says Japs Are 'Misunderstood'

A plea that Americans attempt to gain the confidence and trust of the Japanese people instead of continuing to misunderstand them was the message left today by the Rev. Bruno Bitter, S. J., vice-president of Catholic University of Tokyo.

The message was delivered before several hundred members of the International Federation of College Catholic Clubs at the 20th annual communion breakfast at Hotel Statler.

"The important thing is to understand the mentality and the way of thinking of other nations," he declared. "If we truly understood the mentality of other peoples, there would not be so many mistakes as are made in public life today."

A statesman, said Fr. Bitter, should not attempt to play a part in the politics of a foreign country until he has lived several years in that country and has come to understand the ways of its people.

It is a grave mistake, he said, to consider the Japanese a "tricky people who can't be trusted.

American business men in Japan, he asserted, make the mistake of constantly trying to display the white man's superiority.

ALL FAITHS HAIL SPELLMAN CHOICE

Elevation of the Rt. Rev. Francis J. Spellman from auxiliary bishop of Boston to archbishop of New York was hailed with satisfaction today by Massachusetts notables, including leaders in other faiths.

Some of their comments follow:

GOVERNOR LEVERETT SALTONSTALL: I know Bishop Spellman personally and we are proud of him as a Newton citizen. He is one of the best educated men I know. I congratulate the members of the Catholic laity of New York in having such a man as leader. He will make an inspiring, broad-minded leader who will create a fine impression on the minds of those he comes in contact with.

MAYOR MAURICE J. TOBIN—I am delighted that so great an honor has been conferred on a native of Massachusetts. Archbishop Spellman is thoroughly equipped in training, personality and experience to preside over the most important New York diocese and is a worthy successor to the beloved Cardinal Hayes.

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES M. CURLEY—I rejoice at the great honor that has come to Bishop Spellman through his elevation in the hierarchy, and I recognize that what is a gain to New York is a real loss to Massachusetts. I wish him every success.

M. D. LEMING, executive secretary, Boston Chamber of Commerce—I am delighted that this distinction should come to Bishop Spellman. Beyond all question his elevation is the reward of outstanding merit. I extend my heartiest congratulations and good wishes to him.

THE REV. DR. HENRY KNOX SHERRILL, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts: The Archbishopric of New York is one of the most important positions in the Roman Catholic Church. I am delighted that a Boston man of such recognized ability should be raised to such a high post. I am sure all Bostonians wish him every success in his new position.

THE REV. DR. C. GORDON BROWNSVILLE, pastor of Tremont Temple Baptist Church: I wish Bishop Spellman every success and expect that he will give a fine administration as head of the New York archdiocese.

RABBI HERMAN H. RABINOVITZ, president of the Rabbinical Association of Greater Boston: It is extremely gratifying to all citizens of this state that a native of Massachusetts, who has won fame as a scholar and churchman, has been raised to the high position of Archbishop of New York. Archbishop Spellman will take with him the good wishes of his Jewish fellow citizens.

THE REV. DR. PHILLIPS E. OSGOOD, rector of Emmanuel (Episcopal) Church: The Archbishopric of New York is a very strategic position not only for the Roman Catholic Church but also for the cause of religion in America. It is good to have a modern-minded and well trained man such as Bishop Spellman in that position. Boston does not feel it is losing, but rather contributing him.

Here Is New Archbishop's 'Study Code'

Bishop Spellman's formula for learning was given to the student body at Notre Dame University in June, 1935, when he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws at that university. He said:

"First, remember what you have learned. 'Without memory,' as Dante tells us, 'there is no knowledge.'

"Second, continue to read and to study and to learn, especially about one particular subject. In other words 'All roads must [illegible]'

"Third, live and profit by what you've learned."

DURFEE BATTLE RENEWED

FALL RIVER, April 24 All [illegible] litigation in [illegible] properly claims of Mrs. Beatrice Lee Durfee, widow of Frederick [illegible] Durfee and her father-in-law, William Durfee, wealthy Tiverton, R. I. hotel magnate, loomed today in a new suit filed in Bristol County Superior Court.

In her petition Mrs. Durfee seeks to restrain her father-in-law from selling a home she claims was built for her by her late husband.

She claims that in 1934 her husband had the property deeded in the name of his father, allegedly because of a pending $10,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Mrs. Jane F. Turner. The suit was settled out of court.

Now Mrs. Durfee claims that Durfee, Sr., wishes to dispose of the property. She asks that he be restrained and also seeks an accounting of the equity of her late husband and herself in the property.

Judge Maybew R. Hitch now has pending before him for decision the rival petitions of Mrs. Durfee and her father-in-law for appointment as administrator of the son's estate, estimated at $100,000.

The elder Durfee contends that his son's marriage to Mrs. Durfee was invalid. He challenges the validity of a Mexican divorce which the thrice-married Mrs. Durfee obtained from her second husband, Fred A. Rankh of Milwaukee. Mrs. Durfee insists that the decree was valid and that her third marriage was legal.

LIGHTS—Mrs. Beatrice Lee Durfee, Fall River society belle, widow, who has brought bill against [illegible] wealthy father-in-law to restrain him from disposing of home she claims her late husband built for her. She demands accounting of mate's estate.

A PROPOSED REVISION of the law governing the incomes of Massachusetts Deputy Tax Collectors awaits legislative action in Boston.

First, the proposal known as House Bill No. 417 and sponsored by the State's Collectors' and Treasurers' Association, repeals the section of the existing statute which limits the fee for the collection of a two-dollar poll tax to three dollars.

Then it revises the present system to the extent that the collector would be entitled to obtain for himself approximately FOURTEEN DOLLARS for compelling a citizen to pay two dollars.

But that is not all. The modification goes much further.

If the deputy should find it necessary to resort to distraint of the poll tax debtor's property, he would be able to charge and put into his own pocket the handsome sum of SEVENTY-FIVE DOLLARS.

Another provision of House Bill No. 417 concerns the collection of an excise tax.

Today the deputy is allowed a fee of $12.85. Tomorrow, if the Legislature gives its consent, the amount would become $14.25 even though the tax might be only two dollars.

However, if the deputy found it advisable to apply the provisions of distraint, he would be empowered to jump his present commission of $4.85 to more than SEVENTY-FIVE DOLLARS.

And, in addition, he could force the tax debtor to assume the cost of physically carrying, towing and storing the seized property.

Last, but by no means least: House Bill No. 417 contains a joker. This is the final sentence of the proposed statute, and it provides that even though the tax is NOT collected—even though the taxpayer proves NOT ONE CENT—the deputy is entitled to be paid with the amount of his fee.

UNDENIABLE EVIDENCE that Works Progress Administration funds and facilities provided by the United States Government for [illegible] Communism, through the Works Progress Administration, is supplied by a House of Representatives committee.

Herbert Benjamin, general secretary-treasurer of the Alliance, admitted to the committee that he has been a member of the Communist Party for 13 years and was, until [illegible] a district organizer.

He testified that at least three members of the Alliance executive board and seven members are also Communist Party members.

Peter Cacchione, president of the Workers' Alliance, said he was a member of the Communist Party for two years. He served in the army and, from Spain, went on a speaking tour of the United States in company with Benjamin, a celebration of the Communist revolution.

His union dues, Cacchione explained, was made AT THE EXPENSE OF THE ALLIANCE which derives its funds in the form of dues paid by workers on the Government's WPA payrolls.

This is the type of thing the Dies Committee which furnish other evidence as follows:

That [illegible] secretary of the Workers' Alliance in Philadelphia is a teacher in the Communist Workers' School in that city.

That in 1935 a Brooklyn grand jury accused the Workers' Alliance of 'extreme pro-Communism' in doctrines and with intimidation of relief officials.'

Today the Workers' Alliance represents that it has a membership of 500,000.

And Congress asks: "Shall Federal funds, provided by loyal taxpayers for relief of the unemployed, be used any longer to FOSTER COMMUNISM on a vast scale?"

"CATER TO GIRLS," President Glenwood Sherrard of the New England Hotel Association tells that organization's delegates at their Boston exposition.

"You are not as progressive as you ought to be. As a result, you are losing revenue that belongs in your cash register," he charges.

Mr. Sherrard probably wants to take a leaf from the prosperity book of shipping companies which have encouraged young women to enjoy cruises alone or in groups.

Long ago the travel managers abandoned the thought that a "lone girl" went abroad only when accompanied by an escort—her father or uncle, if she could not find a husband or suitor.

The abandonment has paid dividends. Each succeeding season has seen an increased number of the fair sex journeying solo to Bermuda, the Bahamas and various Canadian ports.

Hotels, however, have inclined more to the conventions and departure of traditional etiquette. This explains why the "Live Alone and Like It" girl is still persona non grata in many a New England dining room and cocktail lounge.

Necessity being the mother of invention, some young women, more resourceful than their sisters, have slipped by the barrier [illegible] arms of paid escorts.

Human Side of News -:- by EDWIN C. HILL

LULU ALBERTINO the woman clown now appearing in the circus at Madison Square Garden breaks a tradition probably as old as the days of Socrates, far older than Punchinello, recorded in ancient Sanskrit writings, when the dead-pan comic was probably much as he is today. But he was always a man.

Among all the clowns Harlequins, Columbines Pierrots, and Pantaloons all of the same tribe, who came down unmistakably from the mediaeval Commedia Delle' Arte there was never a woman.

THIS ancient unvarying bonehead slapstick caricature of the Comedie Humaine has depended upon grotesqueries which for some reason women [illegible] have attempted and which never have been expected of them.

Miss Albertino had to take this into account. She is a comely clown, in the tradition only in her Pierrot costume. None of the rowdy business for her; and none of the conventional red and black facial make-up. "For a woman is always a woman," in Kipling's line, and her charms are not to be marred or burlesqued.

BEATRICE LILLIE
She Clowns Hilariously

The stage is something else again. Fanny Brice, for instance, has done a deal of hilarious clowning, as have Beatrice Lillie, Ethel Merman and a number of others who could be named.

As we get it, their art is one of characterization, and having achieved this they can go much farther than could a lady clown in circus caricature and buffoonery.

Circus clowning is essentially an art of pantomime. The stage, with the advantage of the spoken word and closely observable facial expression, makes it possible to achieve hilarious and mischievous exaggeration, [illegible] which women may be as good or better than men.

But they never have been particularly good at slapstick and, again, there are imposed upon them certain demands of pulchritude and femininity which would cramp their style in the circus rough and tumble. The funny hats which women wear so seriously give an instance of these limitations.

A GOOD CLOWN knows he's amusing. I saw a jolly little screwball study on the head of a pretty young thing in Rockefeller Center the other day. Joe Cook would have snatched it for his museum. She was an intelligent looking girl, one hundred per cent feminine.

One might have thought somebody was kidding her when they told her that hat, but one could see she was proud of it.

COMEDIANS may come and go, but the children still love Punch and Judy. It is comforting to hear that this pair of droll brawlers will be represented at the World's Fair, and by a Boston puppeteer.

Charles T. Fernandez of Roxbury, known to his neighbors as "Pinky," is off for New York today to prepare the love which will be a part of Tony Sarg's "Enchanted Forest."

Mr. Fernandez has labored 20 years to make children of Boston laugh at their jokes. Now he is making his puppets of a specially patented plastic material which allows for finger movements and facial grimaces, and [illegible] expects great things for it will revolutionize the art.

With Mr. Fernandez goes Arthur Irving Young, Boston actor and stage technician, who will assist him at the fair.

OF ALL the press agents who come into the office, none is more stimulating than Wade Monroe, who represents the D'Oyly Carte Company. A handsome, white-haired gentleman is Mr. Monroe, with a keen blue eye and a delightful sense of humor. He snorts at the suggestion that his job when it takes him rapidly around the country is fatiguing.

"The bright Broadway boys are sissies compared to this veteran of the newspaper and theatre worlds. For he can remember when he fought with the 6th Inniskillen Dragoons "under three generals Stewart, Wolsey and Kitchener. As for his exact age—he balks. "The government might find out and insist on pensioning me off," he says.

Political Parade -:- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON April 24—The two greatest man-made wonders of the modern world, the Suez and Panama Canals, are on the hottest spot today they have ever occupied since they were opened to the commerce of the world.

Suez is probably even more vulnerable to sabotage [illegible] this moment than was the potential army transport, the S. S. Paris, in the harbor of La Havre.

The Panama Canal is being protected against any eventuality to an extraordinary degree, probably exceeding anything that was done for its safe-guarding during the World War.

THE GUNS are manned and loaded, ready. The army is on the tiptoe of alertness, everything that the human mind could do to assure the safe passing of the fleet into the Pacific has been done.

It is not possible, nor would it be wise, to divulge the nature of the precautions that are being taken against anything that might prevent the return of the fleet to the Pacific, but it may be said that certain things are being done that have never been possible before.

LOADED AND READY
Giant Coast Defense Gun

In this connection it is said in Washington, although not on authority, that the decision to send the fleet back to the Pacific at this time did not come from the Navy, and that it actually took the Navy by surprise.

There is circumstantial evidence to support the view that the Navy had expected to complete its whole program in the Atlantic. The wives and families of the fleet have all settled down in the East in houses and apartments. There is a tremendous reshuffling now in progress.

The ultimate destination of the fleet after it reaches the Pacific has not been disclosed.

Is it intended that the American fleet shall protect the British lines of communications to China?

THERE IS MORE pessimism in Washington over the probability of a general European war than there was even a week ago.

London and Paris, in event of war, might expect to be subjected to two weeks of unparalleled horror from the air.

Could they stand it? The answer is yes.

Gathering information and impressions from numerous sources, this writer is still of the opinion that there will be no general European war at this time.

But he is bound to say that those who take the contrary view include far more competent authorities.

GISH SISTERS SEVER D. A. R. TIES

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK April 24 Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was not the only member who resigned from the D. A. R. when they banned Marian Anderson from singing at their auditorium in the capital . . . Three distinguished ladies whose forebears came to America almost 300 years ago also wrote to the D. A. R. and resigned from that organization because of the ban . . . The ladies, who are very much concerned with upholding the democratic principles of this country, are members of one of the foremost families in The Theater . . They are Mrs. Mary Gish and her two daughters, Lillian and Dorothy Gish.

SOCIAL NOTE: Edwin Johansson, a sailor now stationed aboard the government-owned ship Tuscaloosa, worked aboard the Ranger Vanderbilt's America's Cup winner when that yacht sailed to Hawaii. Greta Garbo came aboard the ship to inspect it, and saw Johansson. "You're Swedish, aren't you?" she asked . . . "Yes, ma'am," he replied. "Not 'ma'am'," returned the usually icy Garbo. "We're both from Sweden. So call me Greta."

FINANCE DEPT.: Orson Welles last week visited the Chicago bank designated as trustees of his father's estate. Under the provisions of the will, Welles is to receive $25,000 when he is 25 years old next year . . . He was ushered into the president's office, started to explain his visit and then was interrupted by a phone call from the Selznick office in Hollywood. The call had been transferred from Welles' hotel . . . "Hello," the president heard Orson speak. "What? . . . A trilogy? . . . Three pictures? . . . Well, how much? . . . How much? . . . $250,000? . . . No, thank you. I won't do it" . . . Welles then turned to the bank president. "Regarding my father's bequest to me," he explained. "I'd like to borrow $10,000 on it."

MYSTERY DEPT.: Elton Oursler writes mystery novels under the name of Anthony Abbott and is the creator of the character "Thatcher Colt" . . . Last weekend Oursler presented his wife while at their Cape Cod home presented him with a Sherlock Holmes hat.

The mystery writer donned the hat, smoked a pipe and invited his guests to an auto ride along the Cape. A half hour later they ran out of gas and none of the passing cars heeded their pleas to stop—because Oursler still wore his old Sherlock Holmes hat . . . A gasoline truck finally stopped and gave Oursler a gallon of gas. But that didn't solve the problem immediately because the creator of the detective, "Thatcher Colt," didn't know where to find his gas tank.

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MONDAY MUSINGS: WOULDN'T IT be advisable to let the people of Boston know exactly what has been accomplished in the placement of European refugees in jobs? . . . And for that matter, wouldn't it be a smart idea for the immigration authorities to inform the public as to the number of refugees landed at this port? . . . Only through publicity, in the opinion of this column, will there be found an answer to "the whisperers" who are at it with a vengeance these days.

HERE IS A CASE IN POINT . . . A few weeks ago a Boston restaurant employed a German refugee as a night watchman and chore-man . . . He was not hired to replace an American workman . . . The job was created . . . This turned out to be an unusual refugee . . . The management was very sympathetic, and extended itself to make the man happy . . . Unfortunately, the worker's personality was such that he held the job for two weeks only . . . Having not been used to laboring in a job that necessitated his wielding a mop and broom, the man rebelled . . . Toward the end he was sulky and surly, and the restaurant returned him to the committee which is handling placements . . . Now that little incident has proved an ever-enlarging ripple in the ocean of local gossip.

THIS ISN'T THE ONLY case of th sort which has generated gossip . . . In New York, a large department store was compelled to advertise widely that it was not displacing American employes with refugees . . . With the German immigration quota as small as it is, and with Boston only one of a score of large American cities tryig to assimilate European victims, how many, do you suppose, are the refugees now working in this section? . . . The number must be so inconsiderable as to be negligible nearly . . . But the photo services are broadcasting pictures of refugees landing in various ports of the country, and there is talk that refugees are being landed along the coast as surreptitiously as they have been placed on the shores of Palestine . . . So the "whisperers" find material for poison . . . It is harmful at a time when Senator Robert F. Wagner's bill to give 20,000 German kids under the age of 14 a chance in America is up for discussion.

PERHAPS THE COMMITTEE on refugees in this territory has a right to answer that it isn't the business of the press or public . . . Victims of persecution are being admitted legally to the country, and a humanitarian sector of the public is trying to do the best it can to keep them fed, clothed and sheltered . . . If the whole problem was publicized, there is a good chance that other would help out.

This column had an experience in the past month which convinces your reporter that vicious and untrue gossip can be counteracted by a few lines of type—in the proper place . . . You don't hear much now about that imaginary fight between Jimmy O'Keefe and Mayor Tobin . . . Against one refugee who found it impossible to carry on a job, there must be a number who have fitted into the local economic jigsaw and are already proving themselves most valuable to their bosses. A few good feature stories must be present in the situation, and the bare statistics, even, would be interesting, enlightening and certain to pull the fangs of the poison-dishers.

For these statistics are sure to prove that we are to prove that business establishments are dong a wholesal jjob of giving them preference over the victims of our own New Deal . . . And that's what the "wispherers" would have you believe.

RICHARD DIX TO PLAY WASHINGTON ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Richard Dix

HOLLYWOOD, April 24 - Radiant and with a strange [illegible] Lupe Velez has started up more comment in one week than any actress since Garbo made her debut in "The Torrent." It isn't only Leo the Lion, who is doing the roaring over her performance in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," but everyone who has had a peek at the Hudson rushes can't say enough about her. Very wisely M-G-M isn't planning to let La Greer sit idly by after "Mr. Chips" brings her recognition. Today Louis B. Mayer handed her Susan and God, the Gertrude Lawrence stage hit.

PRINCESS BABA

You may remember this valuable property was originally bought for Norma Shearer so you can see how highly the newcomer is regarded. She was well known in England before coming over here but she cooled her heels for almost a year before a break was given her.

• • •

THEY TALK about millions on the Lot as casually these days as does Sam Goldwyn when he is starting an epic. So I never batted an eyelash after I was told that Richard Dix is about to be starred in "George Washington," a history of the father of our country which when finished will total a round million. Richard had his choice of three stories and he chose to play the Virginia gentleman who won freedom for these United States. Rich has received flattering notices wherever "Man of Conquest," Republic's first monied outbreak, is shown.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Mrs. Jack Oakie buying herself a complete set of diamond and ruby jewelry at one of our local jewelers. That's what I call being good to yourself; Joan Fontaine and Conrad Nagel have forgotten their purse. They were guests of Mrs. Ivan Kahn at her big party for Mischa Elman following his concert. Many of the film world turned out to honor the great Elman at the Kahn party. Movita has gone to Tia Juana to remain with her bridegroom, Jack Doyle, until he sails for England. Peggy Fears with Maxie Rosenbloom listening to Bruz Fletcher sing at the Bali. Maxie has been at the Versailles every night for Peggy's act.

PRINCESS BABA and her royal mater, the Ranee of Sarawak taking turnings over at the Beverly Hills Derby; Joan Bennett flies East tomorrow on a business engagement. Virginia Peine expects to leave for the big town next week; wonder when Marie Wilson and Nick Grinde will wed, if ever; Marion Nixon Seiter, who has two adopted babies, is one of Hollywood's happiest prospective mothers. Married three times, this is the first child of her own. Bill has a grown-up boy by a previous marriage; Mary Healey, new 20th Century-Fox songbird, a twosome with Billy Bakewell; the Ernest Truexes chit chatting at the Beverly Tropics but apparently it's no reconciliation.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

YOU'RE NERVOUS, you say. Things upset you easily. Particularly strange things. New people. New situations. And, of course, this gets you into a lot of trouble.

You "act like a fool when you have to go strange places . . . don't know what to say, people think you're dumb." And "almost any little thing gets your goat." You flare up at trifles. Afterwards, you could "kick yourself all over the block"—but then it's too late.

That's why you can't ever hold a job for long. And why you make people so sore at you because you seem to fail them when they need you most. You don't want to fail them. You're not deliberately slow, or stupid, or stubborn. And you're positive it isn't because you're cowardly.

"IT HASN'T anything to do with fear," you insist. "I'm no hero, but if I know I have to face real danger, I can be as brave as anyone. But it's the unexpected things that upset me. And that's because I'm high strung.

"And it certainly isn't fair to blame me for feeling that way. I'd like to be like other people, but I can't. You can't help the way you're born.' If people would only be a little more patient and considerate, I'd get along all right. I wouldn't have a bit of trouble if I could only take my time about things . . . get used to them, and then do them my own way."

That's the way you feel about yourself, isn't it partner? And you're honest—but you're wrong.

You're wrong, first, in thinking that you're "different" from most other people . . . that you "go to pieces" because you "were born that way." It is true that some people have more sensitive nervous organization than others. But ALL children are born timid . . . ALL children "go to pieces" easily . . . ALL children want "to take their time about things, do things in their own way."

Which simply means that WE'RE ALL BORN SAVAGES . . . UNCIVILIZED . . . DISLIKING CHANGES AND PRESSURE . . . DREADING STRANGENESS.

You don't "go to pieces" because you've had too much pressure, but because you haven't had enough. You're not super-sensitive . . . you're just civilized. You're suffering from exactly the same self-consciousness, clumsiness, slowness and general peevishness from which a savage would suffer if removed from his jungle and forced to face Big City problems.

NOR WILL KINDNESS cure you of that jungley shyness. Kindness is a gracious thing and we should all give and receive it. But it isn't the medicine for what ails you. If you want to think more easily, act more quickly, coolly and competently, what you need is not more kindness and consideration . . . BUT MORE CRITICISM AND COMPETITION. There's only one way to learn how to live and that is by LIVING.

Socialites Flock to Juliet Richardson's Bridal

JULIET RICHARDSON'S marriage to Waters Kellogg at Emmanuel Church Saturday was attended by many distinguished members of society . . .

When Mrs. Charles E. Mason, Jr., arrived at the church, her husband, who was an usher, dashed over to her and asked without cracking a smile, "Name, please?" . . . Ada replied, just as soberly, "Mason," whereupon Monk, who had just left her a few minutes before the wedding, solemnly looked over the guest list to see where she was to sit, took her arm and escorted her down the aisle to one of the front pews . . .

All eyes were on the bridal procession which was walking slowly down the aisle when Ginny Ward and Sam Cabot hustled into their favorite pew on the rear side, but, later at the reception, Ginny's rust suede suit came in for a great deal of admiration . . . It will be just the thing for lolling in the deck chair of an ocean liner, if she and Sam carry out their original plans for a European honeymoon after their marriage next month . . . It is made in double-breasted style with white buttons and has a beret to match . . .

Mrs. Charles L. J. Noble will have difficulty packing the crimson cartwheel she wore to the wedding, in the luggage she takes on her trip to Memphis next month as a representative of the Boston Junior League at the national conference . . . but it will come in handy for the garden parties where Southern hospitality will be showered on the visiting Leaguers from the North . . . She and Charles had difficulty suppressing a giggle at the amusing sight of Rev. Perkins Osgood holding Helen Cabot's gardenia bouquet at the conclusion of the ceremony . . . Helen, the maid of honor, handed both hands to straighten the folds of Juliet's train as the latter turned away from the altar, so she quickly handed the flowers to the clergyman to hold . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson Holmes, Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott, Mrs. William E. Dexter, Mrs. John Cunningham and Miss Corinne Coburn were other prominent guests in the wedding gathering . . .

Virginia Attracts Bostonians

You Can be Beautiful

Flower Face—Here's How

By ARLINE GOULD

FLOWER FACE . . . is what you might as well be called . . . because it's pretty sweet if you haven't that pink petal look it's only because you haven't discovered the means, the beauty wherewithal!

There was a time back in the beauty lark days when you bought a "liquid powder" which you used solely on your shoulders and arms to take care of evening decollage.

THREE THINGS AT ONCE

Rose shading of form is absolutely no one point in common with one of the newest developments in makeup, a liquid blush accomplishes three things at once: even while it makes your face look like pink dawn and apple blossom on the bough and all in all the pink of perfection. Particularly that last — because it completely disguises blemishes and fine lines.

A most refreshing flower time to the new arrivals this week addition to a full line liquid makeup which is a really fine examination cosmet.

First, it tones your skin so that if you apply it just before going out you just naturally get a glow that makes you look as though you've been out in the sun.

CREATES OWN FOUNDATION

It creates its own foundation. You do away with the need for powder base and the new liquid is perfect.

It will [illegible] to make up to any shade you want to be. Just [illegible] and you have a perfect complexion.

All you do is apply it with the fingers, it dries instantly and you're ready to go. Whether you're in a summer cotton or a formal gown from the evening powder. You could ever be a [illegible] from that moment on.

To learn about this flowery petal three piece makeup, [illegible] Arlene and Lilian, 48th [illegible] Park and 5th Ave. [illegible] stamped, self addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage

Is It Luxury?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

As a young man who has been turned down twice because he didn't have the price of luxuries, I am becoming somewhat embittered.

Why complain about the lack of morals in young men when girls want to know what kind of a car you can expect, what allowance they are to have for clothes and pin money? They claim to want love and marriage, but they want it in the luxurious version of the honeymoon suite.

Most of these girls who turned me down have parents who haven't a penny. Their mothers washed ironed, saved and today they wish their girls want to begin where their parents are now.

CHEAPSKATE

You've just happened to meet the wrong type of girl. You're too mercenary. I sincerely suspect you've been hitchhiking around the more expensive resorts, getting into society, and running around the upper brackets. You've just acquainted farther than the social stepladder. Try to meet some nice girls who work for their living, know the value of a dollar and are domestically inclined.

The world is full of such girls who are lonely, and home dates because they don't drink and pet. Don't go after the social climbers who want to marry money. You just haven't the price.

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

SIMON LOSES TEMPER "You're going away," he tells Camilla. "You will be sent to school. This meeting young men must be put to a stop."

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance . . . [illegible] . . . writer, had not neglected to marry their mother. When he died he left no provision for his children but a life interest in the house to . . .

GLADYS . . . [illegible] . . . interest in at all for Camilla and Mark. And she wanted the house to . . .

SIMON . . . [illegible] . . . Simon married the estate efficiently and was like a brother to Camilla and Mark. They had no idea he was in love with the boy he married, Evelyn.

EVELYN . . . [illegible] . . . Dore. Everyone knew they disliked her and knew that the wedding was unusual. Although Evelyn disapproved of Mark's attachment to Camilla, Simon made over Dore to him. After they were married, Mark went away to school. Camilla met . . .

STEPHEN FULLER, who was staying with friends near Dore. They took walks together, meeting outside her home. To her horror, Camilla discovered her mother was drinking. Soon after this Stephen told her he loved her but believed people should live together before they are married, to see whether they were suited to each other. When she refused, he told her they would be married. Coming home unexpectedly, Simon discovered Camilla had ridden the dangerous horse he had just bought . . .

Now Continue:

CHAPTER 19

WHEN Simon returned to the house he found the hall still empty. Well, he reflected, wherever Camilla was she would probably be back for tea and what he had to say to her would keep till then.

He opened the library door and, with some surprise, found her sitting there. She was in a chair by the fire, wearing the frilly frock which had been got for her to wear at her wedding and, as he entered, she rose rather hurriedly and dropped her cigarette into the hearth.

Simon returned her greeting. He took one of his cigarettes from the open box on the table.

"Wait a minute, Camilla," he said as she made a movement to go.

Camilla waited.

"We we didn't really expect you," she said nervously, "for another two days."

Simon smiled a little.

"So I see," he said. He lit his cigarette. "But how long have you been putting that red mark on your lips?"

Camilla blushed vividly.

"It's Mother's. I borrowed her lipstick this afternoon. I haven't before."

"I see. Well you can go in and change in a minute and wash it off. Do you understand, Camilla?"

"Yes."

"By the way, what is the maid in uniform going out doing in the hall?"

"Well, you see, I've given out of Mark's old coat. She and it's been awfully cold."

Simon nodded.

"All right," he said. "But you're not likely to feel warm," he added drily, "if you wear your Summer kit at this time of year."

Camilla reddened. Her cousin came over to the hearth and stood, balancing himself on his heels.

GROWN UP

"You've been borrowing other things, haven't you?" he said. "Edwards tell me that you've had Berserker out. You knew that was against my orders, didn't you?"

Camilla was silent, glancing out of the window.

Simon's brows lifted.

"Well?" he asked.

"I don't see why I should obey orders now. I'm not a child."

A little smile twitched Simon's mouth. Camilla saw it and the fact of his temper raised its head.

"If you don't obey," Simon said, "you'll find yourself in trouble. You know that?"

"Well I don't care."

"I see. By the way, the horse got away with you, didn't he?"

"No," Camilla replied coolly, but she knew otherwise.

Simon's lips tightened.

"Is that true?"

"Yes," Camilla put as much impudence as possible into the word.

"Then you had better learn to ride the train in future; and not to put a horse that you can't ride."

"Yes," Camilla replied. In a clear little drawl she added, "I suppose you'd ask that Evelyn would have ridden better in her blue and white check habit and her hair all in place."

A silence followed on this remark. Simon turned abruptly and walked over to the window. The temptation to shake Camilla had been almost overwhelming.

Surprise was mixed with his wrath, for his cousin weren't in the habit of talking back to him. Camilla had certainly grown since he [illegible]

There was a silence. Simon watched the temper die out of her eyes.

"But Simon, I thought you knew," she said at last. "I'd write to you."

And now, Camilla," Simon said, perhaps you will explain. Camilla, seated in the chair by the fire, looked up, twisting her hands together.

"Well, you see . . ."

"Go on," Simon said, grimly as she stopped.

"You see I I met him a few weeks ago I went down to the Old Stone one day and Stephen was there photographing it."

"Stephen who?"

"Stephen Fuller. . . . And so we started talking. He was very nice. He talked about books and things. He writes books."

"Go on."

He said his father knew my father a long time ago, and so we made friends."

"Well?" Simon said, as she paused again.

"He was staying with the Curtis's. But after that we used to meet [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

"WUTHERING HEIGHTS" PREMIERE THURSDAY AT LOEW'S

Boston Stage Playbill

OPENING TONIGHT

PLYMOUTH — "Our Town," Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play seen here a year and a half ago, in regular theatre engagement with Eddie Dowling in the stage manager role created by Frank Craven. It is the second of a group of popular priced attractions sponsored by O. E. Wee and Frank McCoy at the Plymouth. Play is a poignant closeup of life in a small New England town. Thursday and Saturday matinees.

COLONIAL — "The Yeomen of the Guard," opening the second week of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company's four week visit, will be given its first presentation in the current repertory with Martyn Green in his usual brilliant portrayal of Jack Point, the pathetic little jester. Nearest to serious opera in the Gilbert and Sullivan collection, "The Yeomen of the Guard" is notable for its lovely music.

Tuesday night, "Patience," the satire on the aesthetic Oscar Wilde, will be given for the first time here this season.

Other bills: Wednesday matinee and evening, "The Mikado"; Thursday evening, "The Gondoliers"; Friday evening, "Trial by Jury" and "The Pirates of Penzance"; Saturday afternoon, "Iolanthe," and Saturday evening, "Patience."

CONTINUING

COPLEY — "Pinocchio," an extravaganza suggested by Collodi's children's classic and produced by the Federal Theater, enters on its third and final week tomorrow evening. It is the story of an amusing puppet who finally achieves his dearest wish and becomes a real boy. There are five evening performances with a Saturday matinee.

IN PROSPECT

MAY 1 at the Colonial — The D'Oyly Carte Opera Company will begin the final fortnight of its four-weeks' engagement in Boston, Gilbert opening Monday with "The Gondoliers."

MAY 1 at the Shubert Frank Fay's Vaudeville Show, which has been running in New York for the past six weeks, headlining Elsie Janis, Smith and Dale, famous comedy team, Eva Le Gallienne and Richard Waring in the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet"; Glen Pope, magician and comedian; Flo Barnes, the Chester Hale Girls; Johnny Barnes and Fay himself as master of ceremonies. Other acts to be announced later.

MAY 3 at Peabody Playhouse — "He was Born Gay," Evelyn Williams' romantic drama based on the "Lost Dauphin" of France legend (only son of Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI) legend, will have its premiere under Harvard Dramatic Club auspices.

MAY 9 at the Copley — "Lucy Stone," drama on the life of the great feminist, will be presented by the Federal Theater.

MAY 22 at Shubert — "The Streets of Paris," musical revue, starring Lucilla Gear, Bobby Clark and Abbott and Costello comes here under the auspices of the Shuberts in association with Olsen and Johnson of "Hellzapoppin" fame.

MERLE OBERON as Cathy, the beautiful, high-spirited heroine who is loved by two men in "Wuthering Heights," opening Thursday at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Austen Lake:

Fenway Love Call; Ted Steals Show

THERE, MY FELLOW TOWNSMEN, WAS a Sabbath ball game in which all the moods of April nature mingled with all the whimsies of the human animal called Man. The Fenway Fauntleroys succumbed to the Philadelphia Apathetics by 12 to 8 in a game which started under a splatter of rain and see-sawed into honey-colored sunshine. The only thing missing was a barrel organ and a monkey.

AUSTEN LAKE

In fact the game just missed being no game at all. Because at 2:50 P. M. the big tarpaulin was still stretched over the infield and the players and umpires were still hiding in their tunnels while Eddie Collins and Tom Yawkey argued with Connie Mack about which would be the greater evil; (1) to expose their players to Bell's palsy and chilblains, or (2) to thwart, irritate and exasperate the customers, of which there were 10,000 shuddering on the slopes. They finally agreed that it was bad business to thwart the customers, lest by so doing they might become scarcer than the ball players. So they decided of the two evils the lesser one was to thwart the ball players.

Be Blue? Not on A $49.70 Payoff

Success of 1939 Racing Now Sure

BOBBY GOLDMAN, "Right Eye" to Billy Ames in the Narragansett Park publicity department, tried to get everybody who would listen to him to play Be Blue in the $5000 Spring handicap, but few persons would even give Bobby a hearing . . . Bobby was cheering all alone when the race ended . . . And Be Blue paid $49.70.

I was aboard Don Meade and Early Delivery . . . Meade gave Early Delivery a swell ride, but the horse tired in the race through the stretch . . . Wise Prince, picked to win by Dave Wilson, was only beaten in a nose finish . . . Wise Prince is a great runner through the stretch.

Judge James E. Dooley dropped over to the press box to tell how pleased he was with the fine weather, big crowd and top racing of opening day . . . The handle of $588,791 bears out my contention that New England is going to have another banner racing year . . . Charley Adams, John T. Lambert and Floyd Bell of the Suffolk Downs forces were among the first to congratulate Judge Dooley on the success of the Narragansett Park opening.

Pat Horgan, who at one time was Racing Secretary of Narragansett Park, was in the press box trying to give the boys a few winners . . . Dave Wilson kept me out of the red with Goldman, Jack Sting and Tricksick . . . Clocker Bill Smith insisted that I bet Guild with Don Meade up . . . The Clocker also gave me Little Banner, but we shall skip that one . . . Former Sheriff Bill Quinn, who once made me one of his deputies in ceremonies conducted over the air waves, told me that the large number of ladies at the races is the reason Narragansett Park has been so successful . . . I find that most of the dolls like to go to race tracks by auto, and Narragansett has splendid roads leading to it from all directions.

Governor William Vanderbilt expressed himself as pleased by the type of the crowd and also by the racing . . . Governor Vanderbilt has taken racing out of politics in Rhode Island, and now the sport should go places.

GOV. WILLIAM VANDERBILT

Sergeant Eddie Mack, formerly of the Argonne A. A. front, says he will remain at the Narragansett front during the present meeting and leave "Rip" Valenti's Goodwin Club to carry on in boxing in Boston . . . Mack still has hopes that Great Barrington will get rolling before the racing season closes . . . Dan Gurnett made a trip to Great Barrington over the week-end in an effort to see if he could adjust situations at the up-state track . . . There are still 30 days of racing which could be awarded to Great Barrington.

• • •

Horace Wade in Perfect Voice

HORACE WADE will continue to do the announcing at Narragansett Park . . . He was in perfect voice at the opening . . . Horace was writing stories for the Chicago Examiner when he was going to high school . . . He later went in for racing, and owns horses as well as being one of the leading announcers in the country . . . In Florida, you don't get a description of the race while it is being run . . . Numbers are flashed on the board at intervals during a race showing the position of the horses . . . I like the action that Wade gets into his story of the race.

"Babe" Rubenstein was on the air with race description . . . When at Scituate in the summer I like to listen in as "Babe" gives his broadcast on Friday night of how he thinks the Saturday feature will be run.

Don Meade didn't make a single mistake in riding Early Delivery and Guild . . . Don is in there giving everything he has, and is sure to make a hit with New England race goers.

There were 5000 persons on the race specials out of the South Station, and almost 400 on the special from New York . . . Greater Boston sent 10,000 more to Narragansett by automobile . . . Massachusetts money is important in the success of Narragansett Park and Rockingham.

Charlie McLennan Meets the Press

CHARLEY McLENNAN, racing secretary at Suffolk Downs, tossed a party to the press at the Copley-Plaza before leaving for Maryland last night . . . McLennan is one of the youngest and one of the best racing officials in the country . . . He is being paid $23,000 a year by Suffolk Downs, while he gets $37,000 more from Hialeah Park and Maryland tracks.

Jack Campbell is the only racing secretary who rates with McLennan in the matter of getting the heavy cocoanuts . . . Charley's dad was a top racing official, and he taught the Suffolk Downs secretary how to succeed.

Random Shots at Target

WOODIE RICH will now be a starting pitcher for the Red Sox . . . The youngster has made good so far, and will take his regular turn in the box until such time as he fails, which Joe Cronin hopes will never happen.

Johnny Buckley insists Honey Mellody will toss so many punches at Lou Ambers tomorrow night at the Garden that he will win the decision . . . It is a fine opportunity for Mellody as Ambers is virtually matched to clash with Henry Armstrong in a bout for the world's lightweight championship in New York during the coming summer.

Lou Ambers Rates 9-5 Choice Over Mellody

Rivals Clash Tomorrow in Garden Battle

With Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion of the world, looking for a quick knockout victory, and Honey Mellody, Charlestown, ready to put up the fight of his life, nothing short of a ring classic should take place tomorrow night at the Boston Garden in the 10-round feature of a Goodwin A. C. boxing show.

While Ambers continues to rule a 9-5 favorite, there has been a sharp swing to Mellody along a wide section of the fistic front and some of the critics would not die of surprise should Mellody turn around and upset the Herkimer Hurricane tomorrow p. m.

Honey has everything to win and nothing to lose in this bout and such a fighter is always dangerous. He can afford to go in there swinging, taking a full-bankroll gamble, while Ambers will have two strikes upon him—to beat Mellody and to clinch a shot at the championship with Henry Armstrong.

Mr. Opportunity goes a-knocking at the Mellody family door with a loud bang and Honey hopes to cash in. If he can punch out a victory over Ambers he will get the crack at Armstrong and the world's 135-pound championship, a match which czar Mike Jacobs plans to put on in June at one of the N. Y ball parks.

MELLODY ROOTERS

The Armstrong camp will be secretly cheering for a Mellody victory tomorrow night. They do not want any part of Ambers again, especially with their double champion a bit bashed up in the recent ring warrings. Ambers right now amounts to the greatest fighter of his weight in the world, having outclassed Paul Junior and kayoed Baby Arizmendi in recent starts.

He would be a favorite to regain the title from Armstrong if they were fighting tomorrow night.

So Ambers would seem all of a 9-5 choice over Mellody, yet it takes only one bad night, maybe one mistake, to upset the apple-cart, and Mellody has reasons to be hopeful and confident.

Abe Denner, West End, walks into a tough customer in Martin Riley, Fall River, in the eight-round semi-final. Featuring the preliminaries will be a six between Tickey Ford, Lawrence, and Fred Cabral, Cambridge. Other sixes will be Lionel Jack Dubois, Lewiston, vs. Irish Johnny Smith and George Salamone, East Boston, vs. Mickey Page, Providence. For an opener, Matchmaker Rip Valenti has signed K. O. Blouin and Billy Shaw, Maine fistic rivals, who staged one slam-bang fight recently in the Garden ring.

Cleveland Signs Veteran Luke Sewell

CLEVELAND, April 24 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians have signed Luke Sewell, veteran catcher, to plug a gap caused by an injury to Rollie Hemsley.

Sewell, 38 years old, worked out with the team before Sunday's game with Detroit. He was with the Indians from 1921 to 1932 and then went to Washington.

Doctors said that Hemsley would be out of the game "indefinitely." He pulled a muscle in his side throwing out a runner at second base on the final play of Saturday's game with the Tigers.

One for the Books

ASHLAND, Ore., April 24 (AP)—Jupe Wallin, touring the local course, hooked his shot. The ball plopped into an irrigation ditch and knocked out a 20-inch, six-pound trout, which Wallin took home for dinner.

Harvard Leads Eastern Loop

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—Paced surprisingly by an undefeated Harvard team, the members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League today looked ahead to an early-season "crucial" program on tap for next week-end.

Harvard, which has won its first three games, will play twice, meeting Princeton and Cornell at Cambridge Friday and Saturday. Dartmouth's defending champions, beaten once in three starts, will go to Yale on Friday to meet the Elis, who opened their league campaign yesterday with a 6-2 triumph over Cornell.

The standing and schedule:

	W	L
HARVARD	3	0
YALE	1	0
DARTMOUTH	2	1
COLUMBIA	1	2
PENNSYLVANIA	1	2
PRINCETON	0	1
CORNELL	0	1

Friday—Dartmouth at Yale, Princeton at Harvard. Saturday—Cornell at Harvard.

BOBBY RIGGS WINS

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 24 (AP)—Top-seeded Bobby Riggs of Chicago won the singles championship of the western North Carolina tennis tournament over Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., today, 4—6, 6—1, 2—6, 6—1, 6—2.

McLain to Test Sonnenberg

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth grid star and twice holder of the world's mat title, clashes with Mayne McLain, giant All-America back from Haskell Institute, Thursday night in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's tournament at the Boston Garden.

Sonny boy, probably the most colorful warrior in modern wrestling history, may be making his last appearance on the mat. A few weeks back he was seriously hurt when he lost his title to Steve (Crusher) Casey, Ireland's mighty muscle man, and although he has fully recovered, friends fear some of his old zip and ginger may be gone.

If it is, and Gus is unable to make quick work of the big Indian star, he will hang up his wrestling tights forever, and thus will pass an idol of thousands for the past 10 years.

Gus has made the promise of retiring to his friends who are legion. But deep down in his heart he feels that he is as good as ever and the cocky little guy is even visioning himself champion of the world again.

In a special event, Marvin Westenberg, former Shadow, takes on Leo Numia, one-time Black Secret while the semi-final will have Rebel Bob Russell, rough house star, against Frank Brown.

Trainer Crippled, Vanderbilt Keeps Pet Out of Derby

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 24 (AP)—J. H. (Bud) Stotler, trainer of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's race horses, is the kind of a man who can tumble semi-conscious out of a smashed, burning automobile with his back almost cracked in two and say: "Has anybody seen my hat?"

It was a pertinent question at the time, but it doesn't matter so much now.

Bud won't be needing a hat for some time. He's wearing a plaster cast instead, and his address is Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore.

Being confined like that while his fractured vertebrae mend is no fun for a big, restless fellow like Stotler. He's a strong, but not exactly silent, man whose heart is with his horses.

Once when he was unloading a bunch of yearlings, one of the youngsters slipped on the wet platform and fell. Bud picked him up bodily with his strong arms and set him down again without drawing a breath.

IN PREAKNESS, THOUGH

But now that his back is fractured, Bud will be fidgeting around in his plaster bungalow for weeks. To his chagrin, he won't be able to see the Kentucky Derby or the Preakness.

Like the old felt hat Bud lost, the Derby doesn't matter much now, for his pet, Impound, a three-year-old which shared the hopes of Maryland with W. L. Brann's Challedon, won't be among those present in the Churchill Downs classic.

Vanderbilt, more than a little glum at the accident that befell his trainer, said he had shipped Impound to Long Island and planned to send him in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica April 29, then bring him back to Pimlico for the Preakness May 13.

Impound, ridden by Leo (Skinny) Fallon, the Baltimore mite, finished a good second to Gilded Knight in the Chesapeake Stakes here Saturday, but you can't blame Vanderbilt for skipping the Derby and saving his No. 1 colt for the Preakness.

As president of the Maryland Jockey Club, which operates Pimlico, this young man has made the Preakness the nation's richest race for three-year-olds. Naturally he'd like to win it.

BACK CRACKED

And while his trainer is laid up, Vanderbilt himself will attend to the conditioning of Impound and the rest of his string.

Stotler, a broad-shouldered, rugged man of 50 or thereabouts, was hurt en route to Havre de Grace when his coupe was rammed from behind in a patch of fog on the Philadelphia road.

His mouth, nose and chin were battered, and he was doubled up with a pain that shot through his stomach and his back. But he wouldn't go home until he had put a school of two-year-olds through their paces and given Fallon instructions for the Chesapeake.

"Ride a good race, son," he said just before Mrs. Stotler drove him off to Baltimore. "I'll be thinking of you, and good luck."

He didn't know until he got to the hospital that his back was cracked. He didn't know how the race came out until Vanderbilt came by and told him. He still doesn't know what became of that battered old felt hat.

Dorothy Leonard Bows As Swim Marks Fall

INDIANAPOLIS, April 24 (AP)—Two new women's national junior A. A. U. swimming records are in the books today as a result of some great home stretch swimming by Halina Tomska of Detroit and Helene Rains of New York in the national, middle states and Indiana A. A. U. swimming champion ships here.

Miss Raine, 14-year-old star of the New York Women's Swimming Association, came up from nowhere in the last 30 yards of the 200-yard breast-stroke event to nip Patty Aspinall of Indianapolis at the finish line in the record-breaking time of 3:13.3.

Both Miss Rains and the 13-year-old Miss Aspinall were under the old mark of 3:15.2 set by Margaret Huffman in 1932.

Miss Tomska, competing for the Detroit Athletic Club, trailed in the 440 yards free style until the next to last lap. Then she swept ahead of Ann Hardin of Louisville, Ky., and Dorothy Leonard of Worcester, Mass., to win in 5:29.5.

The old record of 5:30 was established by Lenore Knight in 1934.

Miss Rains and Pat Ryan of New York led an Eastern team to victory over a Midwestern squad in a 300-yard medley relay.

Barbara Cook, Purdue University co-ed, competing for the Indianapolis Athletic Club, obtained some measure of revenge for her defeat in the national low-board diving contest last week at the hands of Arlite Smith of Chicago by trimming the Chicagoan in the Middle States ten-foot diving contest.

Miss Cook accumulated 124.67 points to 116.7 for Miss Smith.

68 'Pures' Clash Tonight In Diamond Ring Bouts

Sixty-eight amateur sluggers have signed for tonight's fourth and final tourney of the Diamond Ring Tournament, to be staged at the Boston Arena under the auspices of the Irish-American A. A.

This will be the last chance New England simon-pure leather tossers will have to qualify for the finals of this "sparkler" tournament.

Bouts will be held in all eight classes at championship weights. All boxers must report at the Arena at 6 o'clock tonight to weigh in, and the first bout will get going about 8:15. A good four hours of heavy milling is in store.

Winners, in addition to the victors in the other three preliminary shows held so far in this Ring tournament will clash in the grand finals of the 1939 Diamond Ring Championships at the Boston Arena one week from tonight, May 1.

In addition to winning a beautiful ring, next week's champions will be given first consideration when selections are being made for a Boston team which will meet the best out-of-state competition available in the wind-up show of the present season that the "Irish" will offer on May 8.

George Freeman, head-man of the South Boston club, has just returned from California, where he took in the recent National Boxing Championships, and has a grand opportunity to make the best selections of other teams from the showing of the boys in the title events.

Williams Tests Nats' Pitchers

the rightfield stands, landing some 15 rows up among the customers.

His first homer in the "Big Time" tied up the ball game and travelled some 420 feet, with the Fenway fandom roaring acclaim for a new Boston "idol".

Henry Pippen was his fourth inning victim. This time Williams laced a terrific drive to left center. It looked for all the world like a second homer in succession. But a stiff wind held it and the ball struck a foot from the top of the crawl sign, just to the left of the flagpole, and dropped to the field for a double.

Opening batter in the hopeless ninth and Roy "Tarzan" Parmalee grimly attempting to stem a possible last minute uprising on the part of the home towners, Teddy pounded a savage line drive to deep left field and the crowd rose in unison, visioning a certain fifth hit in succession. But again the wind was a determining factor, holding up its flight. Bob Johnson backed to the wall and caught it with upraised hands much to Teddy's own amazement.

GREAT CATCH

But none of his many hits bettered his superb running catch made at the expense of the same Mr. Johnson.

The Sox were leading 8 to 7 at the time. There was one out and runners perched on first and second when Ben looped a Texas Leaguer into short center, dead over second. Spectators glued their eyes on "Doc" Cramer and they groaned as they saw he couldn't reach it.

But Williams miraculously could and did, his gangling legs eating up terrain and his gloved hand leaping far out to snare the ball and hold it. It was only fate that the grand save was wasted as the A's made merry in a six run, and game-winning inning.

The kid is now Red Sox batting leader with eight hits in 18 times at bat, for an average of .444.

Not so much his weekend hitting as the way he collected them, sure and deft and with tremendous power, hits to right field, to left field and to center, these were what impressed Boston's diamond populance.

Ol' Miss. Boats Still Reign

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24 (INS) — Age-old supremacy of Mississippi river boats continued to reign today.

Race officials announced that a venerable paddle-wheeler, the Golden Eagle, won the national steamboat race by defeating the Delta Queen and Delta King, California entrants in a chug against time and tradition.

Capt. Henry Leybe brought his boat down the "Ole" Mississippi over the 128 miles from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau, Mo., at an average pace of 13.8 miles an hour.

Of the two California entrants, both of more massive bulk and younger vintage than Capt. Leybe's sand bar-scraped craft, the Delta Queen did the 116 miles from Sacramento to Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay at a 11.4-mile-an-hour job, and the Delta King covered the 90 miles from Stockton to the same finish line at 10.6 miles an hour.
